Everyone has a dream they would want to come true. Everybody has fears, goals, happy moments, and sad moments. Mostly dreams and goals and those are sometimes moments when your dreams come true and you reach your goals which are happy moments. Your dreams can be anything like being an actress, being a singer, dancer, or any kind of job. There was a boy named Alex. He was 12 years old . His dream was to dance. He would try to make up his own dance moves , but when he would show everyone they would make fun of him. As he would grow, he would take dance classes and one day he quit. He stopped dancing and he never wanted to dance again. Alex would get made fun of because they thought he couldn't dance so good. Alex would be called names and he thought he wasn't good enough. One day his parents went in his room and talked to Alex. They told him to never give up and they convinced him to dance. He went to dance class and he would feel confident. One day he was confident and danced in front of everyone. He had an outfit to wear and he was ready. He went on that stage and proved to everyone he could dance. Everyone has dreams and keep trying harder. Also never give up!
