Chapter 1

In a small house in Sacramento California was a young girl named Isabella with divorced parents at the age of 5 months. She never understood why though. For ten, long years, she lived with mother, she lived with her mother so long, she forgot how her dad looked like. She didn't know whether he had freckles, like her, or glasses. She didn't know if he had a gruffy beard or a clean face. After all, she was only 5 months when they divorced.

Her mom never allowed her to go to her father's apartment. She likes her new school but loves her old school better because of her friends she had there mainly, like Sabrina (her bestie) and Paige and Olivia, twins. Whenever it was father and daughter dance, she went with her new friend, Sky, and her dad, Mr. Peters. Though she goes, she hates it; the only parts she liked were Mr. Peter's ridiculous jokes and Sky's friendliness. The reason she hated it was because it brought her back to the sad memories of her parents' divorcement her mother had told her about. As a result, she decided to find out why her parents were divorced and try to get them back together, to convince them they were right for each other.

Chapter 2

One normal day afterschool, Isabella and her friend Sky were talking about divorcement, while they talked that made Isabella wonder why her parents were divorced. When she got home, she asked her mom "why are you and dad divorced?". Her mom did not answer right away but finally, she simply said, "I forgot". Isabella knew when her mom lied, when she lied, she would get sweaty hands and put her focus somewhere else. Then, Isabella asked one more time and her mom yelled, "I just don't know". Isabella's eyes caught a lump in her throat. A couple seconds later she felt down in the dumps. She was so sad; she was not thinking. She knew she was not allowed to go to her dad's house, but she was so upset that she went anyway. At first, she was nervous when she knocked on the door, but they talked she was not nervous anymore.

CHAPTER 3

Isabella finally asked her father in a hurt voice "why did you get divorced?" her dad said, "because I wanted to go to Paris to have you, but your thought she was going to have the baby on the plane I had already paid for the tickets so I got pretty angry and we started to fight. Her dad ask, "does your mom know you are here?" and she replied 'no'. Isabella knew it was cold outside, so she asked her dad if he could take her home and he said "sure, I'm not busy". When they got home, they saw Isabella's mom crying so they went up to her and said "sorry" to both Isabella and her dad. Then the mom said to Isabella's dad "I'm sorry, I now notice why you divorced me." The dad forgave her and apologized too. Isabella asked if they could get together, the mom said yes but the dad said he would think about it. Day after day until one day at 9:30 the dad called and YES. Isabella's mom rejoiced and they were really happy because they were together again Two months later they were married. Isabella was very happy
