Not long ago the parents of two young kids the oldest one Lili which was 12 and the younger one Steve which was 10, the parents died in a car crash by that effect the kids had to leave everything and everyone behind for their old house. The two kids had to move with their grandparents which they little knew about, they moved to Arizona with their grandparents the climate the city the schools everything was different. Lili was new to Greenville Middle School she was in 7th grade and Steve was new to Highwood Elementary he was in 5th grade.

There was something very different in them two Lili actually liked school and always had many friends but Steve was an unsocial live guy didn't like having friend didn't like school and was almost always sad or angry. The first day of school many guys wanted to hang out with Steve but Steve avoided them all through the hallway and in the classes, in the other hand Lili was with a bunch of friends and started liking it there she was also becoming very popular. Later that afternoon their grandparents asked them how was school Lili got all the attention while Steve was just eating his supper waiting for Lili to be quiet which angered him, when Lili was finally done talking then everyone had finished supper and Steve didn't get a chance to talk which obviously he might have said that he hated there and just wanted to be dead to be with his actual parents.

After Lili and Steve had done all their homework and had taken a shower and ate dinner they had a chat Lili was asking Steve why he didn't talk during supper, Steve looked at Lili with an obvious look and said,
"It was because of you, you just couldn't stop talks no and bragging of how well you day was and didn't let me talk at all"

"I did I never noticed sorry can you forgive me I didn't mean to not let you talk please just forgive me"

"No I just won't forgive you because it was obvious that you were talking non stop you were just talking and talking!"

"I'm sorry please just forgive me please"

Steve interrupted her before she could end what she was saying, "Bla, Bla,Bla, yeah right you liar you probably did notice you didn't let me talk!"

Suddenly their grandparents call for them "Steve sweaty Lili darling come downstairs please".

Steve and Lili went downstairs their grandparents told them to stay at the house they were going somewhere and so their grandparents left. Right after their grandparents left the light started going on and of the just heard footsteps all around the house and whispering. Then the lights go back on and everything around them is dropped out of order and bloody footsteps all over the place. Suddenly they hear the maid screaming loudly,

"Aaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa!!!!".

Then the screaming stops and they just see blood dripping thru the cracks of the second floor and from the staircase and they hear the footsteps closer and closer to them then suddenly the front door opens and Steve and Lili start screaming,

"Aaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa!!!!"

But then they notice it was just their grandparents the grandparents were mad at them for the mess there was and Steve and Lili tried to explain what happened but the grandparents wouldn't believe them. Suddenly they go upstairs and see the maid dead and footsteps that were bigger than the feet of Steve and Lili. From that moment the grandparents believed them. One week passed and nothing happens but now it was when Steve and Lili didn't want to be lonely they were too scared to stay alone. Then it was Lili's birthday they had a party Steve invited some of his friends and Lili invited many of her friends. They were having a blast but then the grandparents left to the hospital which was when the nightmare started.

First they heard a crash downstairs then they heard the doors being opened and closed then they heard footsteps near. Suddenly everything went silent everyone huddled up and then everybody heard screaming when they noticed someone of the group was gone. The kids and teenagers saw blood dripping from the ceiling and the bloody foot steps. Suddenly the grandparents came in, all the people from the party started screaming because they saw the hands of the grandparents red and they both had a plastic bag on their bodies with droplets of red and the grandparent had a knife shaped item hid in his pants. The kids started backing away slowly and then ran as fast they could then they locked the room and locked the windows and sealed them with wood but the grandparents somehow got to the room and they didn't look how they had looked down stairs and they told all the kids that were sleeping over,

"Don't be scared we just had forgotten to turn off the projector to our movie we recorded"

"Ok Grandparents", Lili and Steve respond

Everyone including Steve and Lili started judging the grandparents and they heard the rain outside and the lights went off..... They went back on again but now another person was missing and the kids heard an axe and footsteps through the hallway then the axe heard it was being smashed against something and the door was smashed and the lights went off again the axe was heard again and the footsteps also were heard and then..... Someone started screaming non stop and the axe was also smashed again and the door also was smashed and Lili recognized the squeaking of the door and it was the basement door the lights went on again. The next morning when everyone was gone Lili and Steve went to the basement and it was something very unexpected they they found in the basement.....
