

A Little Snail's New Home

By: Alina E.

On a cold October evening a few days before Halloween, a little snail was looking for a new home. He was looking and looking until he saw it. A round and orange pumpkin. The little snail hopped right on the pumpkin and fell asleep.

While the snail was sleeping, a family that was looking for a pumpkin came and took the pumpkin the snail was sleeping on with the snail still on.

When the snail woke up, he was in a house. He looked and saw a knife going straight at him. He quickly hid behind a chair looking at what was going on with his home. The snail saw the family opening the pumpkin and clearing out the inside. That's when he thought, "They are making my home better, now I won't have to be on top of the pumpkin, I will be inside." When they were done, the snail went right into the pumpkin. Then the family got the pumpkin and put it outside. "Yes!" said the snail, "I love my new home." He was doing all right in his home until it got cold and dark. Right at that moment the family came and put a lantern in the pumpkin. "They gave me a light and a heater!" said the snail. And he lived there happily ever after.
