

Katherynne M.
Fourth Grade

The Doll

There was a boy named Jeremy Holmes and he like scary stuff. One day he looked up haunted houses, and he saw a house about to fall and break. It was really, really old. He wanted to go before it fell over so at nighttime he snuck out and went to the house. It was creaking like crazy, but he went in. He brought a flashlight with him and walked around. He opened a door...and it was...A DOLL. He hated dolls. He went up to the doll and saw a little girl. He screamed even more. Also, what he didn't know is that the doll says "Peek A BOO!". Only one time the girl looked at Jeremy. He was so scared he was sweating. He got the courage to run to the exit. So, he ran past the little girl. Only he couldn't see the doll so he looked behind him and the doll jumped on him and said "Peek a Boo!". He threw the doll on the ground and the doll jumped back up. The doll jumped on him again and laughed and the girl did, too. So, Jeremy threw the doll on the ground really hard and stepped on its face. But the girl got so mad she knocked him down on the floor and then she turned into a doll. Jeremy picked her up. He threw her on the ground too and stepped on her. He ran to the exit door and ran home and never came back.