

The Smoky Killer

In a village called Minexica lived a beautiful 9 year old little girl named Lilith with her mother and father. Her mom was a stay at home mom and her dad was a wood chopper and they were all very happy. Lilith was an only child, but hoped to have a sister someday. One sunny Saturday afternoon while playing upstairs in her room she heard a loud "CRASH" followed by a terrible scream. It sounded like it was coming from the kitchen so Lilith ran down to the kitchen to see if she could help. When she got to the kitchen she found her mom standing over a broken bowl and rice spilled all over the kitchen floor. She tried to pick it up but her mom pulled her away by her collar and stood her in front of her. That was when Lilith noticed her mom's eyes were as red as the darkest rose. Lilith asked, "What's wrong mommy?" and her mom replied, "NOTHHING DAUTHER!" in a voice that made her tremble. She pried herself loose from her mom's grasp and ran as fast as she could screaming "HELP!! HELP!!" from the top of her lungs. Before anyone could come to her aid though, Lilith's mom ran after her at the speed of light and knocked her out with a frying pan. A frying PAN!

When Lilith woke up she found herself in a dark room with no windows and only one door. She was tied up and had Duck Tape over her mouth. Unfortunately she wasn't alone. Her demented mother was standing over her holding one of her father's axes over her head. She began to struggle but knew she wouldn't be able to get loose in time. Just before her mom was about to swing the axe down, Lilith's father burst into the room and in two swift moves took the axe from her hand and knocked her mom out. He quickly made sure her mom was unconscious and tied her up. Then he untied Lilith and took the tape off her mouth and asked her, "What happened Lilith, what is wrong with your mom's eyes? She couldn't answer but they both knew who would be able to answer that question; the crazy neighbor next door. He was an expert in magic and all things creepy. Later they found out that what possessed her mom was the smoky killer; a smoky figure that possesses their unsuspecting victims and kills them from the inside out. They tried to save her for several months but by the time they found a cure it was too late! After her mom's death, Lilith and her father were very sad and were never really the same. They both grew stronger though and knew that one day they would get revenge on the SMOKY KILLER.
