Yesterday my dog Burger tried to eat my cat at Burger King. We had taken the dog for his shots and we had stopped at Burger King to treat him for lunch. We didn't know that Burger had a reaction to his shots until his eyes turned red and his tail became long and spikey! Burger's teeth grew sharp. He started to breathe fire. Old Misses Barney comes in with a cat named Celia. Burger lunges out of his seat and snatches the cat. The vet arrived, and they tried to give him his shot, but he pushed them against the wall. The workers were scared they left through the back door. The vet finally got the spot they wanted to give him the shot right in the neck. Then he went back to normal. The food came, and they started to eat. The cat grabbed Burger's food and he started to cry, but they ordered Burger more food and then he stopped crying.

The end.
