Andy the Gorilla with Bowls Full of Fruit Salad
By: Chloe T

It was July 21, on a Sunday, Andy the gorilla went to his cave and made two big bowls of fruit salad. He put it in the refrigerator for it to get colder. While he was waiting he went to take a shower because he smelled terrible. And when he was still taking a shower, elephants smelled the fruit salad. They were following the scent, and found their destination, which was Andy's cave. They were thinking if they should take it, because they were super hungry and they knew that Andy would get super mad, and when he gets mad, he goes gorilla mode. Which you do not want to see. Either way the fruit salads were too attempting, so they grabbed it and ran. The elephants were thinking "if we're gonna get in trouble by Andy then we should share with the whole jungle, "said one of the elephants. All of them agreed, so the whole jungle gotta eat the fruit salads, but the bad thing was that all of the animals in the jungle got fat and chubby. Their tummies were so big they couldn't even walk. They all realized that they needed to hide their tummies. And they did. The monkeys hid in the trees, the frogs in the water, and the giraffes tried to sit down. Then after about forty minutes, Andy started walking to his cave. He was starving and craving for the fruit salads. He got there, and he was red. He was so mad that smoke was coming out of his ear. He knew one of the animals ate it but he didn't know who. So he walked and asked every single animal "Do you know who ate my fruit salads?" they all answered No. He kept walking and walking and walking he kept asking the same questions again and again until he was to tired. Andy went back to his cave and made a new fruit salad with extra tomatoes and extra strawberries to his salad, but then he realiZed that he had no more ingredients to make a fruit salad. So he went grocery shopping to buy the things he needed to make his fruit salad and buy drinks. He came back to the cave and started cooking right away. Andy cooked fast because it was getting dark. He did not only cook but danced and sang at the same time, he got a little bit of salad on his apron but, he didn't mind. After twenty three minutes of cooking, Andy was so tired. He just wanted to take a little nap before he ate dinner. ZZZZZZZZZZZZZZ
Someone knocked on the door. Bang, Bang, Andy was dreaming of unicorns and didn't hear the knock. So Billy the mosquito flew down to the crack, and secretly took the fruit salad bowl with his friends. They took it on top of the roof and munched on the fruit salad as quickly as they could. Then they returned the bowl and flew away. Right after that Andy woke up he finally got to treat his fruit salad he was jumping around with excitement, and squealed, but then he saw the bowl. It was empty. He immediately turned his smile upside down. He was trying to stay calm, but his madness mad him yell "Why!!" the bird flew away from their tree as quick as they could. Andy went to the grocery store on more time to get his ingredients. Andy came home and cooked super fast. After that he didn't get out of the house until he finished the fruit salad t make sure no at it. When we finished he walked to the animals and said "You ate my fruit salads, didn't you " Andy questioned the monkeys. "No" answered a monkey. "Then why is your tummy so big and fat?" asked Andy. "Because we ate a lot of leaves" said the monkey. Andy went home, grabbed a lie detector and came back. He put in on the monkeys hand, and asked the monkey again "Did you eat my fruit salad?" "NO" said the monkey. Beep!!! Andy finally figured out the fruit salad thief. "You monkeys ate my fruit salad" said Andy "We're sorry, it just looked to delicious so we had to eat it , but we're not the only ones who ate your fruit salad, the whole jungle at it. Andy wasn't mad, he gets how they needed to eat because they didn't have a lot of food around the jungle so he said, "it's fine." All the animals started cheering for Andy, Andy, Andy, Andy! They all got drinks from Andy, and had a party.