

Journey of The Lost Legends: The Giant

In a Fantasy where the second you were born you get immediately chosen for a certain art. These specific six were known as The Art Of Illusion, The Art Of Corruption, The Art of Creation, The Art Of Balance, The Art Of Purity, and lastly The Art Of Magic. Each of these clans were ruled by a goddess or god of some sort. Thousands of Years Ago, there was an extraordinarily devastating, harsh and crucial battle against all of the Gods, Goddesses, and their clans. There has been a mystery that has been unsolved ever since the end of the battle. It's about how all the most powerful gods and goddesses from every clan vanished all at the same day. According to The Book Of Knowledge, which is a book made by the Art Of Creation used to figure out all hidden truths behind things, says Gods and Goddesses can never be deceased or removed from their clan due to the fact of the vow they have to take in order to become that certain role. The impact on this occurrence was tragic, and this causes each and every clan to turn more chaotic every single day. There were two very passionate and determined individuals. One was from The Art Of Illusion. His name was Adrian. The other was from The Art Of Creation. Her name was Monique.

One Morning, Monique and Adrian received a letter from the Head Master. It read "You have been chosen for a very special task, indeed. This requires much strength and bravery to tackle. However, you are not the only one receiving this. There is another head tribe member accompanying you. Meet me tomorrow at the head house at noon sharp. -Head Master Fa" Monique was rather thrilled, squealing "THIS IS THE BEST DAY OF MY LIFE!" While Adrian's reaction was like "Well, that's exciting. I'd better prepare before the sun sets. Hopefully I don't get some lunatic to accompany me." They trained and prepared for hours and hours, each of them exhausted and worn out completely. The next morning arrives and they both wake up to the sound of terror. It looked like as if each clan got targeted by an anonymous group of people. They glanced outside and both see The Head Lookout Crew reporting on what they observed. Before they knew it it was already 11:30 AM. There was no time to waste, they began traveling along the path to the Head House. Adrian arrived at around 11:45 AM. While Monique arrived at 11:57 AM. The Headmaster awoken and leaded them inside at exactly noon. He spoke these wise words "The Task you have been chosen for is known as The case of the Lost Legends, I cannot add on further to this but I will give you one clue. The first hint is located in the library using The Book Of Knowledge. You will need a Head Creator to grant you both to use it." The Head Master walked away, leaving the two alone. They introduced each other and told some facts about themselves. After that, they headed to the library, having a small conversation along the way. They finally arrived after twenty minutes of walking. Monique and Adrian were starting to feel more comfortable with each other. They both walked inside looking at thousands of books stacked on the shelves neatly with a sparkling red carpet coated all over the floor. Monique quickly spotted the Book Of Knowledge and reminded Adrian that she was a Head Creator so she could open it. They research of the Path to find The missing gods and goddesses. It says "Although the path is unknown, it is true that the gods/goddesses are mostly going to be founded near the Tropic of Caution, where it's extremely dangerous and frightening all around." Adrian muttered, "where even is the Tropic Of Caution?" Monique overheard his muttering and researched "where is the path for the Tropic of Caution?" They eventually figured out the path and went on their way to the journey.

On their way to the Tropic of Caution they stumbled across numerous obstacles. For one, in order to even get close there, you needed to cross two forests. Each consisting of giants, mutants, ogres, and witches along the way. Adrian and Monique were not thrilled at all for this task. After about a hour of walking they reached the first forest. They saw a old and broken wooden sign that said "BEWARE! GIANTS AND TROLLS AHEAD!" Monique complained "Oh Come On! First we walked for an hour and now we have to apparently beat up trolls and giants? No Thank You!" Adrian added "We haven't even gotten near bizarre. Calm down.” He rolled his eyes. They walked about a quarter of the forest before they heard a stomping sound. It got louder and louder until they realized.. IT WAS A GIANT. Monique panicked knowing that fighting is not her strong suit in things. The Giant crept closer and closer towards Monique ready to devour her. Monique cried hopelessly “ADRIAN HELP!” She tried making a shield to defend herself but it was too late. The Giant yanked her onto his hand. Monique was struggling to escape. In a blink of an eye, Monique sees this shadowy figure, it duplicated, no it quadrupled! It was moving at lightning speed, they summoned and sprayed thick black goo. It went on the Giant and slowly started dissolving it’s body into ashes. Monique couldn’t identify who saved her, but she was speechless. The shadowy figure came closer to Monique and she finally realized who it was. It was none other than Adrian. He waved at her and asked “Hey Monique, are you okay?” Monique quietly replied “Thanks.. I’m fine.” They carried on into the second forest. The second they stepped foot inside, a vast amount of hands grabbed their legs. They got dragged into a deep dark abyss. They were doomed.
