

One morning a family, Lamont and Dinah the parents, Carmelo, Adam, Gregory, Laisha, Lulu, Michel and Davon, the children, woke up on Christmas morning and looked out the window for snow. There was no snow. So they opened their presents. The children got mom a Coach purse with $199 inside, and they also built dad a man cave for fun and a storm shelter. So the family went outside for a couple of hours. It started to rain so they went to the man cave and started watching television. There was a warning "There is a severe thunder storm warning for Fort Worth, TX please seek shelter now." Dad went into the house to get a 72 hour supply kit, as the storm raged with howling winds up to 60 mph. One inch gulf ball size hail started coming down really, really heavy. The man cave's doors busted open. Dad grabbed the two doors and closed them shut. Then the winds got so strong that one of the doors busted open again and flew away not to be seen, the family struggles to hold on.

The storm starts to weaken. After the storm was over, they go to see if their house is okay "it was a miracle" Gregory says. They turn around and see these things flying around which they think they are birds circling but a piece of debris flies over their heads and into their back yard. They all go to the backyard and 9 year old Carmelo said, "Mom, Dad there is an EF5 tornado heading for us." They head for the man cave and wait, then they hear a noise. Lamont goes up for a look; then, Boom! Dad was knocked out cold. Mom covers the kids with all her strength as the storm gets stronger. Mom and the kids hold on with all their mighty strength.

Dad wakes up and covers his family like a shield. As the winds jump up to 266- 290 mph. The storm stops for 30 seconds and it starts all over again. The back of the deadly storm is even dangerous. Finally the storm was over. Everyone survived, except dad. He died because he was sucked up into the tornados deadly funnel, and was thrown to the ground (still living) until a car fell out of nowhere and crushed him to death.

Still until this very day the family is so sad that the whole state of Texas celebrates his death every single year. He died on December 25, 2030 because he was an honest, encouraging, and respectful man.

THE END
