

A True Love Story

This is a story of true love. Both Gabby and Jai loved each other a lot. But one day something terrible happened. Gabby started to feel a chest pain and was sent to the hospital. The doctor tried to find what was causing the pain. The doctor found out and he gave the bad news to Jai and her family. The doctor said that Gabby had breast cancer. Jai was sad and he did not know what to do. Gabby fought bravely and a few months later, the doctor told Gabby she was cured.

Three years passed and Gabby turned 33 and Jai turned 34. They were already married. Gabby started to feel the pain again and she was sent to the hospital. The doctor had nothing to help Gabby stop the pain. Gabby passed away on Valentine's Day. The doctor did not want to tell it to the family and especially Jai, but the doctor had to tell them. When the doctor told them, Jai started screaming and crying. Jai had the worst news ever.

Now Jai goes to the store to buy a Valentine's card every year. Once when Jai was at the store, the person next to Jai asked him, "Are you buying a card for your valentine?" Jai said, "No, my valentine passed away one year ago. But I still buy her a card to put on her grave to tell her that she still has my heart and she is still my love." Jai told himself, "What's the point of living in this world if you lost the one that you love and don't have anybody else to share this life with?" Jai wanted to die and go with Gabby. Years later, Jai turned 40 and had a heart attack. There was no one around to help him so he just died. His last words were "Thank you, God."
